

DESCRIPTION

Winner of the 2019 BigSee Wood Award, the Mela chair boasts a distinct character and classic style, drawing inspiration from mid-century design. Versatile in purpose, it serves as an exquisite choice for occasional or dining seating, making it equally suitable for residential and contract settings. The Mela chair presents a choice of seven distinct wood types, enriched by an array of natural finishes. Personalise the Mela chair with upholstery options, including a curated selection of leathers or fabrics.

PRODUCTION PROCESS

The chair parts are made of solid wood pieces of the same length but different widths, with precisely crafted joints on CNC machines. Each piece is chosen through careful matching of wood colors and structures. The upholstered seats are covered with HR foam and upholstery for superior comfort. Certain chair collections are produced using a special wood bending technology. The technical parameters of hand-assembled chairs comply with standard requirements. Final sanding is done manually with fine-grained sandpaper, and various types of finishes enable a wide selection of the chair's final appearance.

DESCRIPTION

A classic simple form enhanced with a high level of refinement in craftsmanship and extreme fluidity of form; its clearly defined elements seem to flow from and into one another. The oval backrest of minimalist dimensions, ergonomically curved, defines the chair's visual character, functionally accomplished with the same feature seat. These simple elements are connected by equally simple yet strong verticals of a spherical cross-section. The curvature permeates the piece as the dominant design principle, additionally enhanced with the incredible softness of the almost invisible joints, creating an impression of overall compactness, perfect in simplicity. The solid wood chair, without a single sharp edge, appears in a softened version as well, with an upholstered seat and colourful detachment from the raw material, accentuating the beauty of craftsmanship. The high level of material and processing quality translated into an extremely classic form is what makes this chair a desired guest in any space. Unassuming yet visible, it testifies to the users' refined disposition, describing but never unveiling them.

PRODUCTION PROCESS

The chair parts are made of solid wood pieces of the same length but different widths, with precisely crafted joints on CNC machines. DESCRIPTION

A powerful wood and leather combination is highlighted by simple composition. A robust wooden frame provides the basis for the structure, visually exposed and accentuated in the lower part: the solid legs provide a steady foundation for the upper part, fully upholstered in leather. The leather cloak is an integral compact surface fully covering the backrest, the seat and the wooden structure, without visible edges and seams, underlining the beauty and quality of the material. Covering the wooden structure in leather results in comfort and a clear visual dichotomy between the full and the empty, between the textures of the two essential materials. Carefully paced complementary structures create a visually impressive unit, undoubtedly steady and solid, both unassuming and impressive in space. The Invito chair inspires safety. The powerful volume evokes durability and longevity, ideal for creating a space with a distinct character, however with a dose of visual refinement and attractive comfort.

The bar chair parts are made of solid wood pieces of the same length but different widths, with precisely crafted joints on CNC machines. DESCRIPTION

A combination of beauty of the material, the wood basis and ceramic or leather superstructure, is bound in this collection by the common element: a calotte. A subtle association to the spherical form, to a segment of this perfect shape, is immersed in the warmth of wood, in a curved mould, like a negative embracing a body. The piece is completed by a flat surface with a contrasting tone and texture, ceramic or leather inserts, trimmed with wood, like an elegant cross-section, a calotte surface. The functional horizontal place remains visually accentuated by means of the material's aesthetic sensations, textures in seductive light and dark versions, accompanied by the imperative of the tactile, of touch.

PRODUCTION PROCESS

The bar chair parts are made of solid wood pieces of the same length but different widths, with precisely crafted joints on CNC machines. Each piece is chosen through careful matching of wood colors and structures. The upholstered seats are covered with HR foam and upholstery for superior comfort. Certain chair collections are produced using a special wood bending technology. The technical parameters of hand-assembled chairs comply with standard requirements. Final sanding is done manually with fine-grained sandpaper, and various types of finishes enable a wide selection of the chair's final appearance.

DESCRIPTION

Tranquil lines of extremely fine craftsmanship highlight the beauty of the material and evoke a continuous flow by masterfully soft transitions, creating a functional yet sculptural quality. The beauty of design is accentuated by the understanding of the raw material, by respecting and visually underlining the structure of wood, creating a unique quality of aesthetics and an elegant structure.

PRODUCTION PROCESS

The Latus bench is brought to life through a meticulous blend of modern precision and traditional craftsmanship. The process begins with the careful selection of high-quality, sustainably sourced hardwoods, chosen for their strength, durability, and natural beauty. Each wooden element is cut and shaped with precision CNC technology to achieve clean lines and smooth curves that define the bench's elegant silhouette. The frame is assembled using advanced joinery techniques to ensure structural integrity, while the surfaces are hand-sanded to perfection. The final shaping is done by artisans, who refine every edge and contour to enhance the bench's tactile appeal. The wood is then treated with natural oils or finishes that protect the surface while highlighting the intricate grain patterns, adding warmth and depth to the piece. For added comfort, the bench can be optionally upholstered, with high-resilience foam and carefully fitted fabric or leather, tailored to complement the wood's natural elegance. After a final quality inspection, the finished bench embodies both strength and sophistication - a timeless piece built to last for generations.

An ongoing flow of soft lines defines elegant units; it respects ergonomics and sophisticatedly rounds off an understated yet identifiable aesthetics. Like typeface, certain elements reappear in variations of clearly defined hallmark traits, characteristic strokes whose soft wood lines trace out the desired form, adapting themselves to the use by altering the line flow. Seating furniture variations are completed with practical cabinets, all subtly connected by a common aesthetic with a chance of creating a pleasant ambience out of similar elements. Thanks to their unobtrusive beauty, the elements from the Neva collection gracefully fit in already established interiors and adapt themselves to them, refining them while never losing their distinction.

PRODUCTION PROCESS

The Neva bench is handcrafted with soft, flowing lines that balance solid wood and upholstery. High-quality, sustainably sourced hardwood is precisely cut with CNC technology and hand-finished to smooth every curve and highlight the wood's natural beauty. The bench is assembled with advanced joinery for lasting stability. The seat is upholstered with high-resilience foam and covered in premium fabric or leather, carefully fitted with precise stitching for comfort and elegance. Finally, the wood is hand-sanded and treated with a protective finish, resulting in a timeless piece where natural materials and thoughtful craftsmanship come together seamlessly.

DESCRIPTION

Fine gradation is the essence of the features in this table structure, which seems to be made from a single fine pencil stroke combined with exceptional wood processing craftsmanship. The table surface is accentuated thanks to wood structure lines. Softly processed edges make texture lines descend like waterfalls, rounding the edges or continuing their way down, transitioning into the load-bearing elements, the table's legs. Set at an angle, they underline the continuity of the flow and overall elegance. The surface thus transitions into lines getting thinner and thinner to the point of union with the floor. The steady and elegant structure results from a skilled harmonisation of aesthetic values of the raw material and a deliberate design, creating the impression of flying and enhancing space.

PRODUCTION PROCESS

Each piece of wood is precisely cut and shaped to achieve clean lines and balanced proportions. DESCRIPTION

Forms flow into one another, occasionally create sharper edges underlining the beauty of forms, only to become soft and curved again, leading the gaze, calling for a tactile experience. The fine craftsmanship of processing the solid material, solid wood, creates extremely soft and fluid lines. The high level of final refinement evokes an impression of a curved form, of an ongoing flow of unique material surface. The material's structure generates a texture underlying the flow. An optical illusion of sorts ensues, visually alluring, without disturbing the function, accentuating the strength and pliability of the raw material by masterfully processing a delicate idea. The beauty of strong geometry has been softened by visible structure of the material, wood, adaptable in terms of colour and final processing, as well as in dimensions.

The Invito collection is defined by robust beauty, insisting on strong forms, effected with solid and compact basic material – wood. Simple, powerful, finely proportioned forms seem reliable, evoke durability, resistance and comfort. The holders here play a clear role; built to last with exceptional stability. The beauty and strength of wood is visible in the expressive shapes of the elements, additionally accentuated by unexpected contrasts in the material, tones, colour, in the details changing and enriching the character of the piece. Invito is a collection of unassuming aesthetics, of finely crafted simple forms and of a strong character.

PRODUCTION PROCESS

Tables are crafted from carefully selected, high-quality solid wood, chosen for its durability and distinctive natural grain. Each piece of wood is precisely cut and shaped to achieve clean lines and balanced proportions. Skilled artisans meticulously assemble the components using traditional joinery techniques, ensuring lasting strength and stability. Surfaces are finely sanded to enhance the wood's texture and prepare it for finishing. The final stage involves applying a chosen finish - whether natural oil, wax, or another treatment - to protect the wood and highlight its organic beauty. The result is a versatile, handcrafted table that seamlessly blends functionality with timeless design.

A combination of beauty of the material, the wood basis and ceramic or leather superstructure, is bound in this collection by the common element: a calotte. A subtle association to the spherical form, to a segment of this perfect shape, is immersed in the warmth of wood, in a curved mould, like a negative embracing a body. The piece is completed by a flat surface with a contrasting tone and texture, ceramic or leather inserts, trimmed with wood, like an elegant cross-section, a calotte surface. The functional horizontal place remains visually accentuated by means of the material's aesthetic sensations, textures in seductive light and dark versions, accompanied by the imperative of the tactile, of touch.

Each piece of wood is precisely cut and shaped to achieve clean lines and balanced proportions. DESCRIPTION

The Pascal table is a distinguished piece that harmoniously blends natural materials with refined design. Conceived by designer Ado Avdagić, the table features a glass tabletop supported by a tripod base crafted from solid wood, available in various finishes. The glass top, with a thickness of 2 cm, rests securely on the intricately designed wooden legs, creating a visually striking contrast between the transparent surface and the rich textures of the wood. This design not only emphasizes the beauty of natural materials but also offers a versatile aesthetic that complements diverse interior styles.

PRODUCTION PROCESS

Tables are crafted from carefully selected, high-quality solid wood, chosen for its durability and distinctive natural grain. Each piece of wood is precisely cut and shaped to achieve clean lines and balanced proportions. Skilled artisans meticulously assemble the components using traditional joinery techniques, ensuring lasting strength and stability. Surfaces are finely sanded to enhance the wood's texture and prepare it for finishing. The final stage involves applying a chosen finish - whether natural oil, wax, or another treatment - to protect the wood and highlight its organic beauty. The result is a versatile, handcrafted table that seamlessly blends functionality with timeless design.

DESCRIPTION

A combination of beauty of the material, the wood basis and ceramic or leather superstructure, is bound in this collection by the common element: a calotte. A subtle association to the spherical form, to a segment of this perfect shape, is immersed in the warmth of wood, in a curved Mould, like a negative embracing a body. The piece is completed by a flat surface with a contrasting tone and texture, ceramic or leather inserts, trimmed with wood, like an elegant cross-section, a calotte surface. The functional horizontal place remains visually accentuated by means of the material's aesthetic sensations, textures in seductive light and dark versions, accompanied by the imperative of the tactile, of touch.

PRODUCTION PROCESS

Tables are crafted from carefully selected, high-quality solid wood, chosen for its durability and distinctive natural grain. Each piece of wood is precisely cut and shaped to achieve clean lines and balanced proportions. DESCRIPTION

A combination of beauty of the material, the wood basis and ceramic or leather superstructure, is bound in this collection by the common element: a calotte. The piece is completed by a flat surface with a contrasting tone and texture, ceramic or leather inserts, trimmed with wood, like an elegant cross-section, a calotte surface. The functional horizontal place remains visually accentuated by means of the material's aesthetic sensations, textures in seductive light and dark versions, accompanied by the imperative of the tactile, of touch.

PRODUCTION PROCESS

Tables are crafted from carefully selected, high-quality solid wood, chosen for its durability and distinctive natural grain. Each piece of wood is precisely cut and shaped to achieve clean lines and balanced proportions. Skilled artisans meticulously assemble the components using traditional joinery techniques, ensuring lasting strength and stability. Surfaces are finely sanded to enhance the wood's texture and prepare it for finishing. The final stage involves applying a chosen finish - whether natural oil, wax, or another treatment - to protect the wood and highlight its organic beauty. The result is a versatile, handcrafted table that seamlessly blends functionality with timeless design.

The Lasta console table is part of a collection that exudes strength, durability, and timeless elegance. Named after the swallow (“Lasta” in Bosnian), the design captures the bird’s graceful essence, symbolizing lightness and movement. The console’s standout feature is its distinctive wooden fronts, where precisely shaped grooves form a flowing pattern that resembles a swallow’s wings in flight. These sculpted lines add depth and texture, emphasising the natural beauty of the wood and creating a dynamic interplay of light and shadow. With its solid construction and rich, organic character, the Lasta console table seamlessly blends functionality and artistry, making it a striking addition to any space. Like the rest of the Lasta collection, it’s a testament to thoughtful design and enduring craftsmanship.

The wooden surface area creates an organised and pleasant workspace; it envelops a space, conceals elegant drawers, and extends into an ample workspace. The piece is completed and arched by a simple and practical shelf, a horizontal element that creates added value and organisational potential. The compact legs are attached to the lateral sides of the table, leaving the workspace free; both strong and elegant, they are additionally fixed by metal holders. Its design creates a plausible body, elegant and powerful, a comfortable workspace suited to both more intimate and dynamic ambiances.
